Comments:	This form is used for all bond types. It is advisable to review the comment sections of CR-228 and CR-229 which provide greater detail on the procedure for forfeiting bail/bonds. Section 969.13(4), Wisconsin Statutes, requires a motion by the district attorney to grant judgment in those situations in which the defendant does not appear or surrender within 30 days after the court's ordering the forfeiture and the defendant or sureties give no adequate reason for such failure. In those cases in which the defendant does appear and surrender within the 30 days, State v. Achterberg, 201 Wis. 2d 291, 548 N.W.2d 515 (1996), indicates no separate motion by the district attorney is needed. The court would simply enter judgment if it is not satisfied with the defendant's explanation for the original bail/bond violations.
